A large number of Fargo fans will be here, flaunting colors and rooting for their team to win, while Minot will be represented by 150 strong in Bismarck.

Both teams are said to be in fine shape, and since both of them depend upon forward passes and fast open-field running for their offensive power, it is expected that the game will be a spectacular exhibition of high school football.

L. W. Upshaw of Jamestown, who has officiated in most of the big high school contests, will referee the game, it was announced by Secretary Polk of the state athletic board. GETTING BOLDER Lazdits, hold-up men, and their friends are becoming bolder in New York. They're getting so gosh-blamed bold that Police Commissioner Enright has taken cognizance of a crime wave and curtailed vacation and off-day privileges of patrolmen and detectives. This photo shows one of the very boldest and most successful attempts of lazdits. They smashed the big plate glass window of Hickson's one of Fifth Avenue's most fashionable shops, and stole furs and gowns valued at many thousands of dollars—and escaped.

DYE INDUSTRY IN RHINELAND SURRENDERS

Agrees to Resume Work and to Deliver Dyes to Allies on Reparations

FRENCH SEE BIG GAIN

Implies Recognition by Berlin Government Between Nationals and Powers

Düsseldorf, Nov. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—The agreement recently signed by the Rhineland dye industry and the French high commission at Coblenz affects 50,000 workmen. Together the reaching with other industrial agreements this will serve greatly to facilitate resumption of work on the west bank of the Rhine, according to French authorities here.

The dye plants, it is stated, agreed to deliver dyes to the allies on reparation account and in return their export taxes were temporarily reduced so that the plant could rehabilitate their finances.

Other agreements reached by the commission were with shoe manufacturing plants employing 30,000 workmen and the French state that other groups of Rhineland industries are negotiating.

A Paris dispatch last night carrying an announcement by the German war burdens commission of the reaching of the dye industry agreement said particular importance was attached to the German communication because it appears to imply indirectly recognition by the Berlin government of agreements between the nationals and the occupying powers. The German announcement was made in a note by the war burdens commission to the inter-allied reparations commission.

All were assured of fine accommodations.

A corps of Boy Scouts continued on duty today, furnishing information, running errands, carrying gifts and aiding the teachers by other means. Officials of the convention were noted over the smoothness with which it was being handled.

DR. COOK NOW PACES FLOOR OF JAIL CELL

Shorn of Glory For Oil Promotions or His Dramatic Adventure in Polar Region

CONDEMNED BY JUDGE

Scathing Denunciation Made of Man Convicted of Oil Fake Promotions

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 22.—Shorn of any glory that may accrue because of his spectacular oil promotions and his colorful adventures to the ice-gripped North Pole, Frederick Cook paces a cell in the Tarrant county jail today. His last oil promotion, "The Petroleum Producers' association," was his undoing. Late yesterday Dr. Cook was sentenced to 14 years and nine months in the Leavenworth penitentiary, by Judge John M. Killits of Toledo, Ohio, who tried his case. Added to the sentence is a fine of $12,000. The defendant was charged with using the mails to defraud. If he appeals his case he must arrange bonds of $75,000.

Joseph Walden Bailey, his senior counsel, said he could not provide the sum demanded and if he cannot Dr. Cook must stay in the county jail until his appeal is heard. If he does not make it he must remain in jail until the record of the trial is perfected and approved by Judge Killits. This may require several weeks.

In jail with Dr. Cook are 13 of his former associates.

In sentencing Dr. Cook to the penitentiary Judge Killits gave one of the most scathing denunciations ever heard in court here.

Judge Killits said: "Cook; this deal of yours is so damnably rotten that it seems to me that your attorneys must have been forced to hold their handkerchiefs to their eyes to represent you. It is a shame to the high heavens. The way I feel about you I wish I were not so far removed from you as I am. I know you have your ill-gotten gains put away. Your counsel came to me and asked what your bond would be. I set it too low. They say you cannot make it, but it is a sheer waste of sense to say you can't. They must be under the spell of your peculiar personality."

BOMBER PUTS OHIO CITY IN FEARFUL STATE

Maniac Planting Bombs Without Any Apparent Feeling Against Victims

HOUSES ARE WRECKED

Toledo, O., Nov. 22.—Scornful of efforts to make details of plain clothesmen and police to apprehend him, Toledo's bomber was still at large today while horrified residents of the West End fearfully discussed his operations and are wondering where the next deadly missile will fall.

Police say the bombs are being planted by a maniac.

The bomber's latest victim was Charles Yant, whose home was partially destroyed last night by a bomb, the eighth bombing here within the past 60 days. Yant, his wife and another woman smelled the burning fuse of the bomb and rushed from the house just as the bomb exploded. The Yant home and neighboring houses were damaged.

Meanwhile the city is in a state of anxiety, fearing with each new explosion there may be a loss of life. All available police and detectives are working on the case. While there have been no casualties and property damage resulting has not been large the terror caused by the uncertainty as to where the next blast may occur has caused the police to make every effort to catch the person or persons.

According to police the bomber is aiming at no particular person or persons. His victims say, according to police, they never have been threatened.

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE COMMON STAND

Agree Upon Notes to Germany Threatening to Resume Military Control

LONDON IS PLEASED

Relief Is Felt There But French Newspapers Think Step Only Half-way

Paris, Nov. 22.—The allies, through their representatives in the embassy here, council last night agreed to notify Germany that the international military control mission will resume its functions in the reich and that the Berlin government is bound to afford it facilities and protection.

TAKE HALF A LOAF

Paris, Nov. 22.—The attitude of Paris newspapers toward the notes which the council of ambassadors sent to Germany may be summed up in the old adage "half a loaf is better than none."

The papers agree that the notes were only feeble productions but they also point out that the allies preserve a united front.

In a word, observes Le Journal, in its comment on the notes, the military council has settled the difficult question that threatened for a time to disrupt the entente.

AGREEMENT WELCOMED

London, Nov. 22.—The agreement by which France and Great Britain once more present a common front to Germany is heartily welcomed here and is not believed by the politicians, who are glad to be freed from the shackles of their peculiar personality.

The notes to Germany were not available here until a late hour last night and the only press comment this morning is furnished by the Daily News which is hostile to both the British government and the French premier.

It is pointed out in this newspaper that it is obvious Premier Poincare is beginning to feel the effects of a growing moral isolation and it agrees the British government for its weakness and vacillation in handling the situation in the past.

STRESEMANN GOVERNMENT MAY RESIGN

Chancellor Tells Reichstag He's Willing to Quit; Asks Quick Action

POSITION IS HOPELESS

Can See No Way Out For Germany Under Present Conditions, He Says

Berlin, Nov. 22.—(By the A. P.)—In the course of a vigorous defense of his administration by the Reichstag today Chancellor Stresemann well summed the renewed American interest in the reparation problem and said he hoped an international conference would be convened. He denied the report, published in the German press that the government had been officially approached by American financiers and added he had not been informed of any impending international action.

The government is to demand a positive vote of confidence from the Reichstag, the outcome of which is in doubt. The Reichstag was heavily picked with security police in order to prevent the entry of the Communists. Deputy Henneke was barred from the session in consequence of his obstructive tactics yesterday.

London, Nov. 22.—In his address before the Reichstag today Chancellor Stresemann is quoted by agency dispatches from Berlin as declaring that his government would relinquish office if it were considered necessary and that he hoped the Reichstag would make up its mind quickly in order that he might know whether he should continue.

He declared that Germany's internal position was hopeless and that so far as he could see there was not the slightest prospect of effecting improvement.

France had experienced fear of serious German development but he could assure France that any development that might occur would be due entirely to France herself.

The communist deputies constantly interrupted the chancellor. Dr. Stresemann said that despite Germany's serious position efforts would be made to continue negotiations with France because the German government desired to leave no stone unturned in its efforts to effect an agreement and improvement in the situation.

The Reichstag must not be led away by the idea that concessions to France would do much to help Germany. The Reich was in too weak a condition to force counter concessions from France.

"Germany will bleed to death over the Rhine and Ruhr if the wound is kept opened forcibly by France," he said. "The declaration by France that our help to the hungry Germans in the Ruhr constitutes a continuance of passive resistance is untrue; it is shameful. If Germany permitted France to set for hold not for reparations but for other purposes Germany would be acknowledging the justice of the Ruhr occupation. Germany had not one creditor but the whole entente."

"It was not right therefore that only one should pocket the money." As to Germany's internal condition it could only be improved by introducing longer working days.

STOKES GIVES UP IN FIGHT

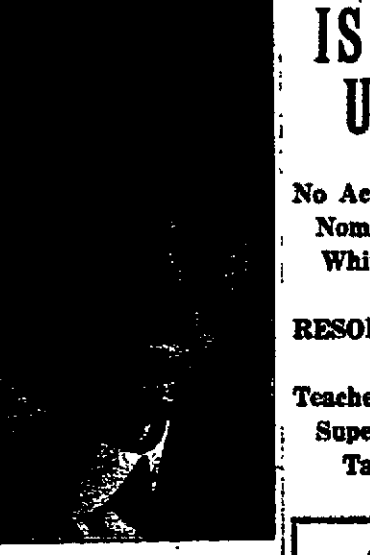

Will Agree to Separation and Pay Money to His Wife

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stokes signed the agreement by which the wife obtains alimony and custody of the two children who, however, Mr. Stokes is to be permitted to see occasionally at Mrs. Stokes' mother's home in Denver.

The agreement was described as a victory for Mrs. Stokes on top of the two decisive defeats her husband received in suits to divorce her on grounds of infidelity. Her temporary alimony of $18,000 a year is understood to have been increased to six per cent on the $750,000 trust Mr. Stokes settled on the two children.

WALTON WILL BE INDICTED, PREDICTION

Grand Jury Reports Today in Case Said To Be Held Against Him

HE WAITED IN VAIN

Cooled Heels in Courthouse Corridors Yesterday Until Told To Go Home

Oklahoma City, Nov. 22.—The probability that criminal action will be instituted against J. C. Walton in connection with his official acts as Governor of Oklahoma loomed today.

A district court grand jury here which considered evidence on which the deposed Governor was convicted and removed from office has drawn indictments, it is understood, and will report to Judge George W. Clark.

Walton himself expects such action immediately to surrender and to make bond when the charges are formally presented. Under the apprehension that the grand jury would act yesterday the former executive remained several hours at the court house with his counsel and left only after being informed by the county attorney that the grand jury's report would not be presented until today.

The expected indictment, it is predicted in well informed quarters, will charge Walton with diverting public funds to his own use by placing his private chauffeur on the payroll of a state department and preventing the assembly of a grand jury.

Last night Ruba appeared at the Dorale home with a shotgun. He fired at Dorale, who dodged behind a chair. The second shot struck Oakes, who died a short time later.

NINE DIE IN EXPLOSION IN OIL REFINERY

Search Continues Today For Additional Bodies After Iowa Blast

New Iberia, La., Nov. 22.—Search continued today for additional bodies in the Visa Sugar Refinery at Lorcauville, 10 miles east of here, which was razed last yesterday by a terrific boiler explosion, killing at least nine persons and injuring 16 others. Five of the bodies probably fatally.

Nine bodies had been taken from the ruins and of the injured brought to the local hospital seven were white and eight were negroes. BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE COMMON STAND

Agree Upon Notes to Germany Threatening to Resume Military Control

LONDON IS PLEASED

Relief Is Felt There But French Newspapers Think Step Only Half-way

Paris, Nov. 22.—The allies, through their representatives in the ambassadors council last night agreed to notify Germany that the international military control mission will resume its functions in the reich and that the Berlin government is bound to afford it facilities and protection.

TAKE HALF A LOAF.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The attitude of Paris newspapers toward the notes which the council of ambassadors had sent to Germany may be summed up in the old adage "half a loaf is better than none."

The papers agree that the notes were only feeble productions but they also point out that the allies preserve a united front.

In a word, observes Le Journal, in its comment on the notes, the military has been left to settle the difficult question that threatened for a time to disrupt the entente.

AGREEMENT WELCOMED.

London, Nov. 22.—The agreement by which France and Great Britain once more present a common front to Germany is heartily welcomed by the Daily News which is hostile to both the British government and the French premier. This newspaper contends that it is obvious Premier Poincare is beginning to feel the effects of growing moral isolation and it scores the British government for its weakness and vacillation in handling the situation in the past.

WILL SEEK TO GET GOLD

Effort to be Made to Take Gold From Lusitania

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 22.—To recover the gold on the liner Lusitania, sunk off the English coast during the war, is the mission the steamer Blakely will set out upon next spring, according to Captain Benjamin Leavitt, master of the ship, who was in port yesterday seeking an experienced crew for the expedition.

"I am confident we can recover the treasure on the Lusitania," Capt. Leavitt said. "We are going fully prepared with the most modern diving apparatus obtainable. Every man already signed up is a thoroughly experienced seaman and several of them divers."

STOKES GIVES UP IN FIGHT

Will Agree to Separation and Pay Money to His Wife

New York, Nov. 22.—Fins to the domestic difficulties of W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel man, and his wife, who is half his age, will be written today when a separation agreement is made effective in court.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stokes signed the agreement by which the wife obtains alimony and custody of the two children who, however, Mr. Stokes is to be permitted to see occasionally as Mrs. Stokes' mother's home in Denver.

The agreement was described as a victory for Mrs. Stokes on top of the two decisive defeats her husband received in attempts to divorce her on grounds of infidelity. Her temporary alimony of $18,000 a year is understood to have been increased to six per cent on the $750,000 trust Mr. Stokes settled on the two children.

The remains of Edwin Pfeiffer of Venturia who hung himself at the Bismarck hospital Tuesday were taken to Venturia today by his father who was called here upon the death of the young man. Funeral services will be held in Venturia.

STRESEMANN GOVERNMENT MAY RESIGN

Chancellor Tells Reichstag He's Willing to Quit; Asks Quick Action

POSITION IS HOPELESS

Can See No Way Out To Germany Under Present Conditions, He Says

Berlin, Nov. 22.—(By the A. P.)—In the course of a vigorous defense of his administration by the Reichstag today Chancellor Stresemann felt compelled to renew American interest in the reparation problem and said he hoped an international conference would be convened. He denied the reports published in the German press that the government had been officially approached by American financiers and added he had not been informed of any impending international actions.

The address dealt at length with both foreign and international situations and was wholly in the nature of a vindication of the chancellor's policies.

The government is to demand a positive vote of confidence from the Reichstag, the outcome of which is in doubt. The Reichstag was heavily plectured with security police in order to prevent the entry of the Communists. Deputy Remmele was barred from the session in consequence of his obstructive tactics yesterday.

London, Nov. 22.—In his address before the Reichstag today Chancellor Stresemann is quoted by agency dispatches from Berlin as declaring that his government would relinquish office if it were considered necessary and that he hoped the Reichstag would make up its mind quickly in order that he might know whether he should continue.

He declared that Germany's internal position was hopeless and that so far as he could see there was not the slightest prospect of effecting improvement.

France had experienced fear of serious German development but he could assure France that any development that might occur would be due entirely to France herself.

The communist deputies constantly interrupted the chancellor.

Dr. Stresemann said that despite Germany's serious position efforts would be made to continue negotiations with France because the German government desired to leave no stone unturned in its efforts to effect an agreement and improvement in the situation.

The Reichstag must not be led away by the idea that concessions to France would do much to help Germany. The Reich was in too weak a condition to force counter concessions from France.

"Germany will bleed to death over the Rhine and Ruhr if the wound is kept open forcibly by France," he said. "The declaration by France that our help to the hungry Germans in the Ruhr constitutes a continuance of passive resistance is untrue; it is shameful. If Germany permitted France to take hold not for reparations but for other purposes Germany would be acknowledging the justice of the Ruhr occupation. Germany had not one creditor but the whole entente."

"It was not right therefore that only one should pocket the money."

As to Germany's internal condition it could only be improved by introducing longer working days.

POSSES SEEK MURDERER OF IOWA FARMER

Disappointed Because Girl Refused to Marry Him, He Slays Another

S'oux City, Ia., Nov. 21.—Posses headed by county and city officials were searching today for John Ruba, a farm hand of Le Mars, Iowa, who is said to have shot and killed Harold Oakes on the farm of L. G. Dorale, near Lawton, Iowa.

Ruba, according to Mr. and Mrs. Dorale, who said Ruba also attempted to kill them, became infuriated because Olga Dorale, 20, refused to marry him after he had twice failed to appear at the altar set for the wedding. Last night Ruba appeared at the Dorale home with a shotgun. He fired at Dorale, who dodged behind a chair. The second shot struck Oakes, who died a short time later. On his way out of the yard he shot and killed a dog which attempted to stop him, jumped into an automobile and disappeared.

ACCEPTS MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETEXTS

Charbonneau, N. D., Nov. 22.—Oswald Olson, cashier of the Farmers State bank of this place, has submitted to arrest under a warrant charging him with accepting money on deposit when his bank was insolvent. He has demanded a preliminary hearing, the date of which has not yet been set. The Farmers State bank is one of several that have been "chloroformed" and the deposits in question were alleged to have been accepted prior to that time. Frank Benish of Charbonneau is the complaining witness.

WALTON WILL BE INDICTED, PREDICTION

Grand Jury Reports Today in Case Said To Be Held Against Him

Cooled-Heels in Courthouse Corridors Yesterday Until Told To Go Home

Oklahoma City, Nov. 22.—The probability that criminal action will be instituted against J. C. Walton in connection with his official acts as Governor of Oklahoma loomed today.

A district court grand jury here which considered evidence on which the deposed Governor was convicted and removed from office has drawn indictments, it is understood, and will report to Judge George W. Clark.

Walton himself expects such action and has made known his intention immediately to surrender and to make bond when the charges are formally presented. Under the apprehension that the grand jury would act yesterday the former executive remained several hours at the courthouse with his counsel and left only after being informed by the county attorney that the grand jury report would not be presented until today.

The expected indictment, it is predicted in well informed quarters, will charge Walton with diverting public funds to his own use by placing his private chauffeur on the payroll of a state department and preventing the assembly of a grand jury.

Secretary M. E. McCurdy of the N. D. E. A. said this afternoon there are 1,400 teachers at the convention, the largest convention in its 36 years of existence.

The name of Superintendent L. A. White of the Minot city schools was agreed upon by the nominating committee of the North Dakota Education Association for the presidency, and his name was presented this afternoon. The re-election of County Superintendent H. O. Pippin of Stark county as treasurer also was recommended. There are but two elective offices to be filled at the convention.

Other names were presented, and there were no nominations on the floor. The election was made unanimous. Members of the committee said Mr. White was selected without his knowledge.

Superintendent White first entered the state as an educator at Fessenden. Later, while serving as superintendent at Williston, he was invited to assume the superintendent's position at Minot, where he has been for several years.

Retiring president W. C. Stebbins automatically becomes vice-president of the association.

The North Dakota Education association, in its 36th annual convention here, was asked by its resolutions committee this afternoon to go on record as favoring moves to strengthen the educational system of the state. The resolutions presented to the convention at its afternoon session follow:

1. That we favor a raising of the standard of teachers qualifications so as to require every person granted the lowest grade certificate to be at least a graduate of a standard four-year high school with professional preparation, and further raising of this minimum standard thereafter from time to time.

2. That we continue to favor a constitutional amendment to provide for boards of education for county and state, such boards to be empowered to employ their executive officers and shape the general educational policies within their respective jurisdictions.

3. That we favor a much larger participation in the financial support of our schools by the state and county.

4. That our compulsory education law ought to be strengthened by providing more effective machinery for its enforcement.

5. That we reaffirm our hearty belief in the principles of the National Education Bill and urge its early passage by Congress.

The resolutions were drawn by a committee composed of Nelson Sauvin of Devils Lake, P. S. Berg of Dickinson, and R. M. Black of Ellendale.

The morning business of the convention was devoted to departmental meetings, with round table discussions, and this afternoon in addition to the general business session, the teachers were to hear addresses by J. O. Engleman, field secretary of the National Education association, and President Harold W. Focht of Aberdeen Normal and Industrial school.

PATIENT FEARS DEATH TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Venturia Youth Commits Suicide in Bismarck as a Result of His Worries

Edwin Pfeifle of Venturia who underwent an operation for a ruptured appendix about eight or nine days ago at the Bismarck hospital hung himself by bedding from the door of his hospital room late here yesterday afternoon during a short absence of his nurse from the room. Attending physicians attribute his act to an acute attack of mental depression over the outcome of the operation. The young man who was about 22 years of age had a special nurse.

Mr. Pfeifle appeared to think that he would never recover from the operation, it was said by his attending physicians, and during the absence of his nurse who stepped out of the room for a few minutes when he appeared to be resting more easily took the fatal step, which resulted in his death.

The coroner was called in immediately after the suicide was discovered by attendants in the hospital.

It comes with every sack of cement. It has been made possible through the Portland Cement Association by the eighty-six cement manufacturers who are its members.

They realized that important research and educational work was necessary to give people the best information on how to use cement. They also realized that this could be done better by unified effort than by any individual company alone.

As a result, you may have for the asking the benefit of this Association's long and exhaustive studies on how best to use cement for the most satisfactory results in concrete construction.

Whatever use you plan to make of cement—whether you are building a concrete hog house or concrete dairy barn, a stretch of concrete walk or a concrete road, a silo or a skyscraper, a home, workshop or a factory—you needn't guess. You can know.

If you want information about the usefulness of concrete under certain conditions, how to mix or place it to get the greatest value out of every sack of cement—you can get it by writing any one of our 28 offices listed below.

Supplying dependable information without charge by booklet, by letter or by personal conference when necessary, is the work of this Association. Millions of helpful booklets, covering a multitude of uses of concrete, are distributed annually to people who know they needn't guess—who know they can get the facts from us.

TRIBUNE WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

TEACHER'S OPPORTUNITY CITED BY DEAN KENNEDY

TEACHER HAS OPPORTUNITY IN COMMUNITY

May be Leader in Rural Communities of the State, Dean Kennedy Says

CITES POSSIBILITIES

The teacher has a great opportunity as a leader in the rural communities, Dean Joseph Kennedy of the University of North Dakota, told the teachers before the rural section, elementary education, at the high school this morning. Dean Kennedy said:

"There is no doubt that the teacher, through his manner, actions, looks, and speech, is a great influence in the life of a child much longer, usually, than the parent."

"The power of suggestion is very great in childhood and youth, especially. This is the most impressionable period, when children are moulded in accordance with what they see and like. It is a principle of human nature that we grow like unto our ideas and ideals."

"This is the lesson taught by Hawthorne's 'Great Stone Face.' Little Ernest looked longingly at the face and imagined that there would be a great man, who should embody all the good characteristics which Ernest had imagined were exemplified in the stone image. As a result Ernest grew more like his ideals as time went on and finally he became the unconscious fulfillment of the prophecy."

"Another example is of a family in the East who had a beautiful picture of a naval scene hanging on the wall, during the years when their sons were growing to manhood. The children all wished they were in a similar situation. According, as each boy grew to manhood he ran away to sea. A visitor to the home said that the picture was the cause of all this sorrow."

"So it is! a person cannot live with an ideal picture for years without being influenced by it; and if this is true of a mere artificial production, how much more true it must be with a living person."

A teacher will get the echo of his own nature and character in the thought and lives of his pupils. An untruthful teacher cannot teach truthfulness; a dishonest one, honesty or an impure one, purity. While some of the children may be deceived all the time, all the children cannot be deceived all the time. Sooner or later they will divine our true nature and consequently we are a standing suggestion for good or ill in the schoolroom and community."

It is often the case that the teacher is a much greater influence in the lives of children than are their parents. In homes where there is much quarreling, scolding and whipping, the atmosphere is always frigid and all the members are "on edge." In such places it is human nature to act contrary to suggestions. Often it is the parents who are to blame when their children become unmanageable and must go to juvenile court. Parents often do not know how to plant the seeds of suggestion in the child's mind and heart. There is a way to every child's mind and heart if it can be found and approached correctly. If we do not come as friends we will not be admitted."

It is for this reason that many inmates of the State Training school at Mandan are as human and humane and law abiding as the superintendent could desire. He wins their confidence and respect and as a result his suggestions are readily adopted and practiced."

It has been said that we grow like unto that which we know and love. In fact, an ideal is nothing more than an idea covered with a sentiment which we love and strive to realize. An idea is merely intellectual, somewhat cold, and rather a weak motive; but an ideal is warm, a center of enthusiasm, and highly motivating. We love our ideals but only think about ideas; and there is nothing stronger in the lives of human beings, as a motive, than love. A pupil will do anything for a teacher er he loves but little for one he hates. Just as a teacher stands for something in the schoolroom, so the one who is to have influence in a community must stand for many things there also. He must be a person of initiative and enthusiasm; he must be a good mixer, a "bale fellow" who meets a likeable person, one who draws people to him. If he is not such a person as has been described he will alienate the community from him, little by little, and in proportion to his alienation, lose his usefulness."

William T. Stead once said that some persons "think in parishes and others in continents. It is also true that some feel in parishes and others in continents. The narrow minded, egotistical person will have narrow influence, while the broad-minded person of initiative will be known and loved throughout a much more extensive field. The influence of some teachers is limited to the school room, and even there is small and of doubtful value. If a teacher is liked by the pupils they will "sing" his praises at home. If they do not, but criticize him, he will not last long in the community."

If then, school and community are with the teacher, the children, loving the teacher, will follow his suggestions and comply with his requests. The writer thinks the greatness of a person can be measured by the extent of territory and time over which his influence is felt. Some teachers are known only in the classroom; others are a household word in the community; and still others are known and followed throughout the state and nation. Some people are forgotten the day after their death; others are mourned, revered and imitated for generations.

If one book might be mentioned to you that would illustrate the influence of a teacher's ideals and spirit in the community, it is the pedagogical novel entitled, "The Brown Mouse." The author is Herbert Quick. The story is stimulating, inspiring, and professionalizing to a high degree.

The writer is inclined to think that the great need of the teaching profession is to raise standards so that about one third of the present so called teachers in this country will be eliminated. We must be cruel to a few to be kind to the communities. And so if the vocation of teaching is to thrive as well as the community, those should be eliminated whose influence, in schoolroom or community, is well nigh zero. Those who have no initiative, no leadership, no enthusiasm, no great suggestive power, should be eliminated from the profession for the good of all. We might then look forward, confidently, to a more noble profession and eliminate that portion of it which is now, merely a "sorry trade."

Users of "INDIAN HEAD" coal all agree that it is the "WONDER LIGNITE." It's hotter, lasts longer, burns clean. BISMARCK LUMBER COMPANY. Phone 17.

TOLSTOY IS OPPONENT OF RUSS SOVIET

Count Tolstoy is a firm opponent of the Bolshevik government in Russia and recently, in speeches before large audiences in this country, predicted the failure of both the Genoa and Hague economic conferences. His predictions have come true in a manner that has been a revelation to some of the world's statesmen. He will speak here Thursday night.

Count Tolstoy is an excellent linguist and speaks many languages fluently. He has written some of his best works in English. His predictions have been published in many countries, and he has contributed to the best of the American magazines. Count Tolstoy may have inherited his linguist ability, for those who have read his fathers "War and Peace" will recall how the grandfather of the present Count, serving as an officer in the Russian Army when captured by the famous Corsican and upon being presented to Napoleon in Paris surprised the French Emperor by speaking better French than Napoleon himself, who had not overcome his Corsican accent.

TRAINING FOR BUSINESS IS HELD PROPER

Teaching of Commercial Subjects in High Schools Is Defended by Teacher

WANTS SOUND TRAINING

Business training in high schools was declared necessary by H. L. Will of Linton, in an address before the Section of Commerce, Secondary Education, at the high school this morning. He said, in part:

"Does the high school commercial course justify its existence? Should it consist of a two years course or a four years course? Should it be offered in both junior and senior high school? Should it be preparatory or vocational?"

"Public opinion on the above questions will largely determine the efficiency of our secondary schools as reflected through their commercial departments."

"According to F. G. Nichols, State Director of Commercial Education in Pennsylvania, over twenty-five percent of students in high schools of the United States are enrolled in commercial departments. Demands are made on Y. M. C. A. and other schools for such work. The high school can give this training at cost while other schools cannot."

Demands Evolved Rapidly
"Present, day business demands have evolved rapidly. It was not until the eighties that public schools offered business courses. The question of long and short courses came up then and educators are as far today from an agreement on the question as they were then."

"What should be the purpose of the secondary business course? Should it be preparatory or vocational?"

"Any business course is not justified that does not make a better citizen or if it does not nearly prepare a person to make a living."

"High School training then should prepare one in the elemental subjects. It should be semi-vocational."

"What should such a course include?"

"It should offer a thorough training in elemental business subjects. Complaints from business and college professors show many students deficient in these subjects. It should include thorough knowledge of spelling, writing, figuring, typewriting, editing, machine and the English language."

Need Thorough Training
"Commercial teachers are largely responsible for the products they turn out is the opinion of Mr. H. R. Davis, Director of Americanization Bureau in Pittsburgh, Pa."

"Mr. Nichols urges business training in every high school not only to render immediate service but to prepare people for the responsibilities of citizenship."

Souvenir Edition Of "Pep" Dedicated To State Teachers

A souvenir edition of "Pep," Bismarck high school newspaper, dedicated to the teachers attending the N. D. E. A., has been especially prepared for the teachers.

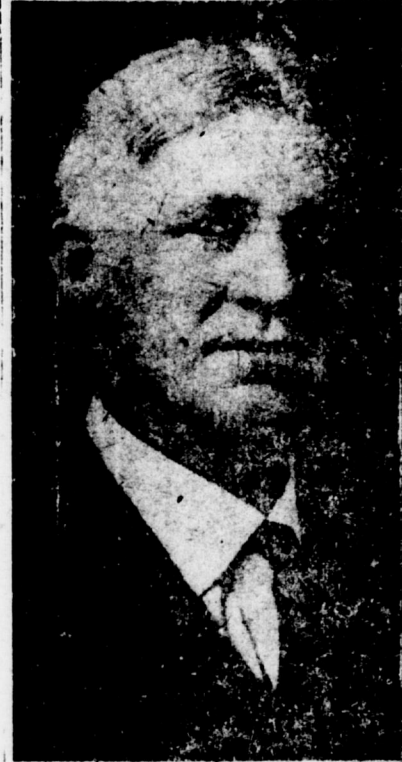

The paper is a very fine eight page edition with editorials welcoming the teachers to the convention, and a number of interesting stories about education and educators in North Dakota. A column entitled "Where to Go What to See in Bismarck," contains in a sentence apiece in enumeration of places of interest in Bismarck and vicinity.

A short sketch of Gov. R. A. Nestos will undoubtedly prove of interest to all the teachers. There is also a short sketch of Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent, and a short story about the number of teachers in the state and in Bismarck. It also contains an autographed picture of James Foley, North Dakota's poet, and a short sketch of his life.

Cuts of the Bismarck schools and places of interest as the new state memorial bridge, the capitol, and others combine in making the paper a souvenir edition.

The "Pep" staff is to be complimented on their splendid edition which will undoubtedly give the teachers a concrete expression of welcome.

Mayor Lenhart welcomed the teachers.

"Many say that schools are an expense," said Mayor Lenhart. "I believe they are an investment."

The mayor told the teachers that the city had gone to considerable expense in an effort to make the convention a successful one, and that if there was anything found lacking a pils who are physically above par, into a winning team, while it neglects to do anything for a large number of pupils who need physical education and training? Why so many scandals and near scandals in connection with athletic contests in high schools and colleges? The spirit of truth must be invited to join the team. It must also be invited to commercial clubs and community clubs until we learn that playing to the galleries is not real community building."

POOR CHILD'S CHANCE LESS

Emma Putney of Valley City Sees Rich Child Having Better Opportunity

"A well to do child has a much better advantage of success than a poor child," said Emma Putney, Valley City in speaking on "Some Social and Economic Relationships of the Home," before the North Dakota Education convention.

"He has a good education, family gulls and has a fairly large income before he gets married," she declared and continued in part:

"His children will get the same good schooling and everything he got. The poor child gets little education, no family gulls, and marries before he has an adequate income. Children are born before the parents are mature and generally there are quite a number. He has little schooling, but is soon needed at home and in the end follows his father's footsteps."

She pointed out that over a million children of tender age were working and that in New Jersey it was learned that over 1,000 children were doing contract labor at home under sweat shop conditions. It was found that many of these children were tubercular.

The speaker pointed out that the poor must of necessity buy their necessities of life in small quantities and as a result pay the highest prices for them. Even their pleasures cost them more, it was said, proportionately, than do those of the rich. She said that the relationship between wages and standard of living is what education plus wages will raise standards.

MARKET NEWS REACTION ON WHEAT GOOD

Although Weak at Start

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Although wheat showed some decline during initial transactions today the market soon recovered. Reports of heavy shipments from Russia and of lower quotations at Liverpool, were bearish factors at the outset. Good buying support here developed, however, and bulls contended that wheat had intrinsic value at current prices. The opening which ranged from 3-8 cents off to 1-4 cents up with Dec. $1.08 3-8 to $1.02, 5-8 and May $1.08 1-4 was followed by a rally all around to slightly above yesterday's finish.

Owing more or less to strength in the stock market a subsequently decided advance in wheat took place with considerable buying ascribed to speculators who recently were bearish. Close 1/2 to 1 3-8 cents net higher and Dec. $1.08 7-8 to $1.04 and May $1.08 7-8 to $1.09.

40 DISABLED VETERANS PUT ON N. D. FARMS

Have Come Through the Season with Fair Success, According to Reports Made

More than 40 disabled ex-service men have been placed on small farms in North Dakota under the direction of the U. S. Veterans Bureau and they have come through the past season with more than fair success according to reports.

The disabled men who are given vocational training on small farms which they have bought on their individual responsibility are assisted by instructors from the North Dakota Agricultural college under contract with the Veterans Bureau. They visit each trainee every two weeks to give him instruction and advice concerning all his farming operations. The Veterans Bureau plan provides a program for operating each farm as to cropping, improvements, and similar matters, and the instructors assist the men in carrying this through. Each farm and family is managed on a budget plan worked out in each case, by the Bureau and the trainee together. This reduces all operations to a systematic basis, and insures regular and steady progress.

Diversified farming, including poultry, truck farming, bees, dairying and hogs, is being carried on. It is not planned that these small farms shall "carry all their eggs in one basket." That the plan is working well, the case of one man will show. He bought a piece of land, operated it under Bureau supervision, and was able to pay off 75 per cent of his debt at the end of the season.

An agricultural expert declares that "successful land development where the settler has only a small working capital depends upon four things: Good land, reasonable price, long time payments at a low rate of interest, good farming methods." We would add good health and increasing diligence on the part of the farmer.

These trainees in vocational agriculture receive from $80 to $100 per month, with additional allowances for wives and children, as training pay. They will, as a rule, be in training for a period of 30 months at the end of which time they will be well established on their own farms, and can safely be declared rehabilitated.

START NEW ERA IN LAND DEVELOPMENT

Western Australia Looms
Large in Affairs of Commonwealth

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 22.—Western Australia is looming more and more in the affairs of the commonwealth in point of settlement and land development. This state leads the others of Australia in the matter of group settlements, which have justified themselves so far in placing and entirely financing suitable men with families on the land that the question of establishing co-operative factories for handling their dairy and other products, is now occupying the attention of the government.

The western state is demonstrating its enterprise and resources beyond the dreams of the people of the older states.

A striking demonstration of this was furnished by the purchase of 843,000 acres in the Murchison district, Dandarraga station, by E. A. Brooks, well known South Australian rancher.

"I went to Western Australia expecting to find a land of sand and sorrow, but was much mistaken," Brooks said on his return here. "I saw a huge, fertile country, crying aloud for men and money to develop it. I rode for 2,800 miles through pastoral country only, and then saw not more than half of their pastoral areas. In the far northwest is grown some of the finest merino wool in the world, being free from seed or burr, very high yielding and greatly sought after by buyers."

"Undoubtedly Western Australia has a great future. Big strides must be made there soon in pastoral matters, and I am of the opinion that within another 15 or 20 years the country will be carrying more than 20,000,000 sheep and will be growing some of the best wool in Australia. I am convinced that before many years the country also will be prominent."

Special meeting Bismarck Chapter No. 10, Royal Arch Masons Friday evening, November 22. Grand High Priest St. John will make an official visit. Dinner in Temple dining room at 6:15 sharp.

TEACHER'S OPPORTUNITY CITED BY DEAN KENNEDY

TEACHER HAS OPPORTUNITY IN COMMUNITY

May be Leader in Rural Communities of the State, Dean Kennedy Says

CITES POSSIBILITIES

The teacher has a great opportunity as a leader in the rural communities, Dean Joseph Kennedy of the University of North Dakota, told the teachers before the rural section, elementary education, at the high school this morning. Dean Kennedy said:

"There is no doubt that the teacher, through his manner, actions, looks, and speech, is a great influence in the life of a child much longer, usually, than the parent."

"The power of suggestion is very great in childhood and youth, especially. This is the most impressionable period, when children are moulded in accordance with what they see and like. It is a principle of human nature that we grow like unto our ideas and ideals."

"This is the lesson taught by Hawthorne's 'Great Stone Face.' Little Ernest looked longingly at the Face and imagined that there would be a great man, who should embody all the good characteristics which Ernest had imagined were exemplified in the stone image. As a result Ernest grew more like his ideals as time went on and finally he became the unconscious fulfillment of the prophecy."

"Another example is of a family in the East who had a beautiful picture of a naval scene hanging on the wall, during the years when their sons were growing to manhood. The children all wished they were in a similar situation. According, as each boy grew to manhood he ran away to sea. A visitor to the home said that the picture was the cause of all this sorrow."

"So it is! a person cannot live even with a great picture for years without being influenced by it, and if this is true of a mere artificial production, how much more true it must be with a living person."

A teacher will get the echo of his own nature and character in the thought and lives of his pupils. An untruthful teacher cannot teach truthfulness; a dishonest one, honesty; or an impure one, purity. While some of the children may be deceived all the time, all the children cannot be deceived all the time. Sooner or later they will divine our true nature and consequently we are a standing suggestion for good or ill in the schoolroom and community."

It is often the case that the teacher is a much greater influence in the lives of children than are their parents. In homes where there is much quarrelling, scolding and whipping, the atmosphere is always frigid and all the members are "on edge." In such places it is human nature to act contrary to suggestions. Often it is the parents who are to blame when the children become unmanageable and must go to juvenile court. Parents often do not know how to plant the seeds of suggestion in the child's mind and heart. There is a way to every child's mind and heart if it can be found and approached correctly. If we do not come as friends we will not be admitted."

It is for this reason that many inmates of the State Training school at Mandan are as human and humane and law abiding as the superintendent could desire. He wins their confidence and respect and as a result his suggestions are readily adopted and practiced."

It has been said that we grow like unto that which we know and love. In fact, an ideal is nothing more than an idea covered with a sentiment which we love and strive to realize. An idea is merely intellectual, somewhat cold, and rather a weak motive; but an ideal is warm, a center of enthusiasm, and highly motivating. We love our ideals but only think about ideas; and there is nothing stronger in the lives of human beings, as a motive, than the love. A pupil will do anything for a teacher he loves but little for one he hates."

Just as a teacher stands for something in the schoolroom, so the one who is to have influence in a community must stand for many things. He must be a person of initiative and enthusiasm; he must be a good mixer, a "hale fellow well met," a likable person, one who draws people to him. If he is not such a person as has been described he will alienate the community from him, little by little, and in proportion to his alienation, lose his usefulness."

William T. Stead once said that some persons "think in parishes and others in continents." It is also true that some feel in parishes and others in continents. The narrow minded, egotistical person will have narrow influence, while the broad-minded person of initiative will be known and loved throughout a much more extensive field. The influence of some teachers is limited to the school room, and even there is small and of doubtful value. If a teacher is liked by the pupils they will "sing" his praises at home. If they do not, but criticize him, he will not last long in the community."

If then, school and community are with the teacher, the children, loving the teacher, will follow his suggestions and comply with his requests. The writer thinks the greatness of a person can be measured by the extent of territory and time over which his influence is felt. Some teachers are known only in the classroom; others are a household word in the community; and still others are known and followed throughout the state and nation. Some people are forgotten the day after their death; others are mourned, revered and imitated for generations."

If one book might be mentioned to you that would illustrate the influence of a teacher's ideals and spirit in the community, it is the pedagogical novel entitled, "The Brown Mouse." The author is Herbert Quick. The story is stimulating, inspiring, and professionalizing to a high degree."

The writer is inclined to think that the great need of the teaching profession is to raise standards so that about one third of the present so called teachers in this country will be eliminated. We must be cruel to a few to be kind to the communities. And so if the vocation of teaching is to thrive as well as the community, those should be eliminated whose influence, in schoolroom or community, is well nigh zero. Those who have no initiative, no leadership, no enthusiasm, no great suggestive power, should be eliminated from the profession for the good of all. We might then look forward, confidently, to a more noble profession and eliminate that portion of it which is now merely a "sorry trade."

TOLSTOY IS OPPONENT OF RUSS SOVIET

Count Tolstoy is a firm opponent of the Bolshevik government in Russia and recently, in speeches before large audiences in this country, predicted the failure of both the Genoa and Hague economic conferences. His predictions have come true in a manner that has been a revelation to some of the world's statesmen. He will speak here Thursday night.

Count Tolstoy is an excellent linguist and speaks many languages fluently. He has written some of his best works in English. His books have been published in many countries, and he has contributed to the best of the American magazines. Count Tolstoy may have inherited his linguist ability, for those who have read his fathers "War and Peace" will recall how the grandfather of the present Count, serving as an officer in the Russian Army when captured by the famous Corsican and upon being presented to Napoleon in Paris surprised the French Emperor by speaking better French than Napoleon himself, who had not overcome his Corsican accent.

TRAINING FOR BUSINESS IS HELD PROPER

Teaching of Commercial Subjects in High Schools is Defended by Teacher

WANTS SOUND TRAINING

Business training in high schools was declared a necessity by H. L. Will of Linton, in an address before the Section of Commerce, Secondary Education, at the high school this morning. He said, in part:

"Does the high school commercial course justify its existence? Should it consist of a two years course or a four years course? Should it be offered in both junior and senior high school? Should it be preparatory or vocational?"

"Public opinion on the above questions will largely determine the efficiency of our secondary schools as reflected through their commercial departments."

"According to F. G. Nichols, State Director of Commercial Education in Pennsylvania, over twenty-five percent of students in high schools of the United States are enrolled in commercial departments. Demands are made on Y. M. C. A. and other schools for such work. The high school can give this training at cost while other schools cannot."

Demands Evolved Rapidly
"Present day business demands have evolved rapidly. It was not until the eighties that public schools offered business courses. The question of long and short courses came up then and educators are as far today from an agreement on the question as they were then."

"What should be the purpose of the secondary business course? Should it be preparatory or vocational?"

"Any business course is not justified that does not make a better citizen or if it does not nearly prepare a person to make a living."

"High School training then should prepare one in the elementary subjects. It should be semi-vocational. What should such a course include?"

"It should offer a thorough training in elemental business subjects. Complaints from business and college professors show many students deficient in these subjects. It should include thorough knowledge of spelling, writing, figuring, typewriting, adding machine and the English language."

Thorough Training
"Commercial teachers are largely responsible for the products they turn out is the opinion of Mr. H. R. Davis, Director of Americanization Bureau in Pittsburgh, Pa."

"Mr. Nichols urges business training in every high school not only to render immediate service but to prepare people for the responsibilities of citizenship."

Souvenir Edition Of "Pep" Dedicated To State Teachers

A souvenir edition of "Pep," Bismarck high school newspaper, dedicated to the teachers attending the N. D. E. A., has been especially prepared for the teachers.

The paper is a very fine eight page edition with editorially welcoming the teachers, cuts of the leading speakers of the convention, and a number of interesting stories about education and educators in North Dakota. A column entitled "Where to Go What to See in Bismarck" contains in a sentence apiece in enumeration of places of interest in Bismarck and vicinity.

A short sketch of Gov. R. A. Nestos will undoubtedly prove of interest to all the teachers. There is also a short sketch of Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent, and a short story about the number of teachers in the state and in Bismarck. It also contains an autographed picture of James Foley, North Dakota's poet, and a short sketch of his life. Cuts of the Bismarck schools and places of interest as the new state memorial bridge, the capitol, and others combine in making the paper a souvenir edition.

The "Pep" staff is to be complimented on their splendid edition which will undoubtedly give the teachers a concrete expression of welcome.

Mayor Lenhart welcomed the teachers.

"Many say that schools are an expense," said Mayor Lenhart. "I believe they are an investment."

The mayor told the teachers that the city had gone to considerable expense in an effort to make the convention a successful one, and that if there was anything found lacking a suggestion from the teachers would bring action.

President W. C. Stebbins of Grand Forks, delivering the President's address, expressed pleasure at having led the teachers during the year. The association now has about 3,700 members, or a hundred more than last year. President Stebbins, speaking on American Citizenship, urged that all educational effort be directed toward building a better citizenship.

"If you have trained a good citizen for your own community you have trained a good citizen for the world," said Mr. Stebbins.

He declared he would not go back "to the good old days," declaring progress has been made. He declared he believed people were more moral more honest, more tolerant than in the days of the Puritans; more patriotic with a sounder conception of citizenship, than in the Revolutionary War days.

Former Illiterate Speaks
State Superintendent Minnie J. Nielson, in declaring that education pays, introduced "Grandma Hillius" of Kaln to teachers. "Grandma Hillius," Miss Nielson explained, learned to read and write in 24 lessons at night school at age of 62 years. The aged lady, in a brief interlude, praised night school systems highly and urged that fight against illiteracy be continued in state.

The aged lady read for the teachers and entertained them with her tales told of how she went to night school through blizzards, how when her son was on the border she was unable to write to him and when he complained about it could not answer for her illiteracy was her secret; how much better conception of patriotism one got through ability to read and write.

She said she could not go to the polls and do her duty, by marking her own ballot. She now had learned the flag salute.

"When one has never gone to school you don't know what the great flag means," she said.

Miss Nielson, during her talk, emphasized the far-reaching effect of education in North Dakota. Between 21,000 and 23,000 have gone out from the high schools of the state, she said. She pointed out that many are in high positions. The Secretary of the League of Nations, she said, is a North Dakota High School graduate. Others she mentioned in high positions included several teachers in New York City schools, many professors, the President of Leland Stanford University, the President of the New Mexico School of Mines the president of one of the largest tea companies in the world, a banker in Bombay, India—many others were mentioned as successful North Dakota high school graduates. The speaker emphasized that education has a world aspect.

Prof. Julius Bernal, head of the Department of Education, St. Olaf's College, Minnesota, spoke upon the "Spirit of Education." He illustrated by incidents of actual life the eagerness of many to improve themselves, and the powerful influence of the urge for education.

Education, he said, is a science and a rapidly growing one, challenging the best thought of the nation.

"I know of nothing more promising for our educational work than the way the spirit of scientific inquiry about methods of teaching has swept the country the last few years. We are rapidly coming out of the fog into clear sunlight. Every teacher in the grades can tell exactly what progress each of her pupils is making in the common branches. By measuring the exact progress of the pupils, it becomes comparatively easy to determine what ways and methods to use to insure the maximum results. Education is no longer a matter of guesswork. It is a science and a rapidly growing one. In every aspect of educational work can the spirit of inquiry be seen. No longer do we treat all pupils as if they were alike. Why? Because we know this they are different and in what respects and to what degree they are different from each other."

"Of course there are phases of our work that as yet are comparatively untouched by this spirit. For example: The problems of school tax are as yet settled on the basis of emotions, selfishness, and politics rather than on the basis of verified facts. School athletics are in many communities strangers to the spirit of truth. This is due in no small measure to the fact that so many communities fail to realize the value of truth for their own growth and prosperity. Does winning team really change the educational value of a school for the better? Does a winning high school team prove that the merchants deserve more trade? Does a school board have the right to appropriate large sums of money for the purpose of making a few pupils who are physically above par, into a winning team, while it neglects to do anything for a large number of pupils who need physical education and training? Why so many scandals and near scandals in connection with athletic contests in high schools and colleges? The spirit of truth must be invited to join the team. It must also be invited to commercial clubs and community clubs until we learn that playing to the galleries is not real community building."

BE PREPARED FOR COUGHS

Do not wait until an attack of "flu" is upon you. Take care of the little cough or cold and prevent the big one, or an attack of "flu." POOR CHILD'S CHANCE LESS

Emma Putney of Valley City Sees Rich Child Having Better Opportunity

"A well to do child has a much better advantage of success than a poor child," said Emma Putney, Valley City in speaking on "Some Social and Economic Relationships of the Home," before the North Dakota Education convention.

"He has a good education, family pulls and has a fairly large income before he gets married," she declared and continued in part:

"His children will get the same good schooling and everything he sees. The poor child gets little education, no family pulls, and marries before he has an adequate income. Children are born before the parents are mature and generally there are quite a number. He has little schooling, but is soon needed at home and in the end follows his father's footsteps."

She pointed out that over a million children of tender age were working and that in New Jersey it was learned that over 1,000 children were doing contract labor at home under sweat shop conditions. It was found that many of these children were tubercular.

The speaker pointed out that the poor must of necessity buy their necessities of life in small quantities and as a result pay the highest prices for them. Even their pleasures cost them more, it was said, proportionately, than do those of the rich. She said that the relationship between wages and standard of living is what education plus wages will raise standards.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

POINTING THE WAY

It is natural that a slightly varying viewpoint should be reflected on Governor Nestos' recent speeches in the east, in the state capital than elsewhere in the Northwest. There is no need for those in the capital city to appraise the Governor's remarks nor to weigh them in the balance, for the views of the people of this community on the subject have long been in consonance with those of the Governor.

The people of the Missouri Slope learned three years ago the hard lesson of continuous calamity howling; they also learned how false was such a pessimistic view as was taken in this region at that time. For the Slope has come back, and in spite of a bump here and there is going forward steadily. When the gloom was dispelled and the people as a unit took off their coats to boost and to work for the Slope results began to appear, so that within the last several weeks they have seen this section of the state referred to as the most solid, substantial section of North Dakota.

Rather the viewpoint of the Capital City is that the Governor in his New York speeches was not expressing an individual viewpoint, but was the captain of a team of loyal supporters of North Dakota. That the result is a victory is gratifying.

From the outside, perhaps, there will be criticism leveled at the effort of the Governor. There are those who will say that the executive could accomplish more had he remained in his office the few days he was absent and there are others who will stand aghast at an executive of the state "breaking bread" in "Wall street." Both criticisms are, of course, puerile. The state has spent more than a quarter of a million dollars in immigration work in the last few years. The Governor sought to create a confidence in North Dakota that would result in a healthy sentiment without which any immigration effort must fail. As to the second criticism, no one has objected to "Wall street" or other eastern financial centers investing heavily in North Dakota farm mortgages and industries. If the Governor sought to stimulate investments in the Northwest he was engaged in a worthy enterprise.

The Governor's speeches may be well regarded from the home viewpoint not as reaching an objective for which he strove, but as paving the way for the entire force of the people of North Dakota to be exerted in behalf of their state. He praised North Dakota highly—the home folks know that he spoke the truth. He pointed out the possibilities of the future for the state—North Dakotans know that he did not exaggerate.

The hearty reception he received is evidence that the East would rather have a good opinion of North Dakota than a poor one. The message to the people of the state is clear. It is that every North Dakotan should, through correspondence with people outside the state, through conversation without or within the state's borders, and in his daily conduct exhibit a sane, sensible optimism, and a determination that North Dakota shall occupy her rightful, high place in the eyes of the nation.

WELCOME, FOOTBALL MEN

The Minot and Fargo football players who meet on a Bismarck field tomorrow to settle the state championship of high schools will receive a cordial reception. They will get a square deal.

It is unfortunate that after the state board had decided that the game should be played in Bismarck—quite without any intrigue upon the part of Bismarck—that the Fargo high school management and allies should endeavor to create an uncertainty that would lessen the crowd at the game to such an extent that it might be a financial loss.

Certainly the matter of a neutral field was settled long ago. Certainly the dictates of the state board, actually issued several days ago and communicated definitely to the Fargo and Minot managements before being made public, should have been accepted or rejected. The continued opposition leads a Bismarck fan to believe that Fargo actually believes it is to play in Podunk Center when the team comes to Bismarck, and that Fargo believes that Podunk Center is any place except Fargo. Further, that having failed to prevent the game from being played here, Fargo seeks to make it a failure.

Fargo fans may be assured of fair treatment. Bismarck fans admire the remarkable ability and fine spirit shown by Fargo high school teams. The sportsmanship of the players is not in question; but the sportsmanship of other forces is.

TAX SPENDERS

How much of your hard-earned money is being spent for government? The tax question is coming to the front again, so here's a summary, of the tax spenders supported by the taxpayers.

There are 2,700,000 public servants on the payroll of national, state and municipal governments in America, and their pay 3500 million dollars a year, according to a check-up by the National Industrial Conference Board.

This huge figure doesn't include the 670,000 pensioners and other inactive persons receiving support—the whole lot collecting 320 million dollars a year.

So taxpayers are supporting 8,370,000 tax spenders—or, as a way call them, "tax eaters." And the cost of the whole lot is not far from four billion dollars a year, FOR SALARIES ALONE.

The public payroll costs every man, woman and child in the country an average of $34 a year. The cost is $91 a year for every American over 10 years of age.

Furthermore, one person out of every 12 over the age of 16 in America is a public employee. In other words, every 11 taxpayers are supporting one tax spender.

The cost of state, county and municipal governments has increased tremendously since before the war. William P. Helms, Jr., an able authority, estimates that state governments alone cost 1443 million dollars in 1922. This figure includes all items of expense—salaries, interest on debt, etc.

The really important question, of course, is what taxpayers are getting for their money, rather than how many are

IN JUSTICE TO FANS

In reality there is no more justification in holding the state championship high school football game which it is to be played Friday between the Minot and Fargo teams at Bismarck than there is in holding it at Yap McLeod's Podunk Siding, which is located nowhere in North Dakota.

The Forum is not criticizing the action of the state board of control in laying this for, under the rules and when the authorities of one school insist, the usual practice is to send the game to a neutral field. Nor does the Forum object to having the game played on the Bismarck field any more than it would to having it played upon any field outside of Fargo or Minot.

But the practice of sending championship games to neutral fields is wrong from the standpoint of the home town fans who are more or less responsible for the fact that the game has been played in the championship class. Justice would dictate that either the Fargo fans or the fans of the opposing team should have an opportunity of witnessing district championship games and the state championship contest without having to travel across the State.

With the contest scheduled for Bismarck, Fargo people who want to see it will have to go 200 miles and Minot boosters will have to travel approximately 125 miles.

As a matter of fact Fargo fans have only had the chance of asking in one of the more important contests this season—the Bismarck-Fargo game. In the district contest with Oakes, the game was played at Websteron, 50 miles away.

The state championship contest this year should have been scheduled for either Fargo or Minot. The Fargo and Minot fans were entitled to such consideration. And not only were they entitled to consideration but such game would unquestionably be a greater financial success in either of the two vital interested cities.

This is a matter which is deserving of the serious attention of the state board of control. It should be the rule that the game would be played in one of the other of the contending cities. This question could be settled by the fling of a coin.

It is to be hoped that such policy will be adopted for next season.—Fargo Forum.

News from Christmas. It will be here December 25. Mail packages early so you can get an answer.

How about books for Christmas? Don't give a book, or Bill a school book.

About a dozen sets of new false teeth would make a swell Christmas gift for a gossiping neighbor.

Don't forget the cook this Christmas. If you don't give her a present she will give you indignation.

A cup of sugar would make a wonderful Christmas present for a neighbor who borrows too much stuff.

Why not give the ice man a Christmas present? Something for scraping mud off his feet would be nice.

Don't forget the milk man. He likes Christmas presents. We suggest a big bucket for watering milk.

There's the plumber. Buy the plumber a Christmas present. What about a million memorandum books?

And there's the grocer. He's human and enjoys Christmas. Give him a nice payment on your grocery bill.

Remember the barber this Christmas. Give him some liniment for rubbing his tired jaw muscles.

And the butcher, get him a Christmas gift. A few extra bones to put in the steak would tickle him.

Why not give your wife a nice, soft rubber rolling pin for Christmas?

Give the bootlegger a Christmas present of a few new customers. His old ones are all worn out.

We know what taxpayers will give politicians for Christmas, but can't tell because we don't cuss.

A nice little booklet containing a dozen silver-plated wrong numbers is a swell telephone gift.

Don't forget the cat this Christmas. Make the cat a present of a few real fat, milk-fed mice.

You should give the dog a Christmas present. If nothing else, buy him a couple of cats to chase.

Have you a canary bird? Make it happy this Christmas. Letting it see a dog chase a cat will do.

Even the goldfish should have their Christmas. Read them all about what a hard time other fish have.

Do you know a man who smokes a pipe? A million dollars worth of matches for Christmas would suit him.

BY CONDO

—AND SO, OUR SOCIETY HAS GROWN APACE. ON THE OCCASION OF THIS OUR NINTH ANNUAL BANQUET, IT IS INDUED GRATIFYING TO NOTE A FINE SPIRIT OF

THE FOOL

By Channing Pollock.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries Jerry Goodkind for his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermons.

"Overcoat Hall," a refuge for the unemployed, is established by Gilchrist, and apartments with baths for the poor are maintained. George Goodkind, Jerry's father, calls and orders Daniel to cease seeing Clare, who frequently visits the hall to help Gilchrist.

Mary Margaret, a poor little cripple girl, helps Daniel with the work at "Overcoat Hall." She likes to hear Daniel tell the story of Cinderella.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"That's the very time to go on," he answered earnestly. "If we stop just because it doesn't work, that isn't faith."

"No, I suppose not," she said. "And faith moves mountains," he continued. He paused a moment, looking at her benevolently. "Once upon a time," he said simply, "there was a woman who'd been sick 12 years."

"What was the matter with her?" queried the girl, interested.

"I don't know. But there was a man in that city who said he could even make the dead rise. And everybody laughed at him—as they would today. But the woman didn't laugh, and one morning, when he was passing her house she got up and followed him—just to touch his hand. His cloak. And what do you think?"

"I dunno," the girl said eagerly, leaning forward.

"She was cured," said Daniel. "And the man said—"

"I know," she interrupted. "The faith has made thee whole?"

"That's right," he smiled. "Could God do that for me?" she asked seriously.

"Yes," he said with conviction. "It would be an awful big favor."

"But if he doesn't," Gilchrist put in, "you must go on. If faith doesn't heal our hurts, it helps us to bear them. And that's almost the same thing, isn't it?"

"Yes," she said, but with a trace of disturbing doubt.

"Like believing you're Cinderella," he added.

"Yes," This time she smiled a bit.

"We can't decide what we want and then be angry and doubtful because it doesn't happen our way," he continued. "Because all the time it's happening this way. The only thing we can be sure of is that He knows what's best."

"That's right," she nodded. "You mean, if God wants me to be well, some day he'll make me well?"

"If you believe hard enough," he stressed.

"And if he doesn't?"

"Then that's right—if you believe hard enough," he answered.

The girl paused a moment reflectively. She could not forget her twisted legs easily. They were real. Every step she took upon the substituting crutches was a reminder of them. But she was eager to believe what this man told her. She didn't understand why—Doubt and resentment were rising now and she put them down with inner resolution.

"I will, Mr. Gilchrist," she said determinedly. She rose and reached for her crutches. Then she looked down at the dishes in front of him. "You ain't touched your supper," she said with concern.

"I've had plenty," he replied, getting up slowly with the satisfaction of a man who had "meat to eat that he knew not of."

"I'll send Grubby up for the tray," she said as she left.

Gilchrist walked to the window, looked out a moment and then started to draw the shade.

The door swung open hurriedly and Pearl Hennis, with a look of back into his own heart—"like other women."

Pearl straightened up with an air of pride.

"And I've got 'em," she declared, waving boastfully at her costume.

"Yes, you've got 'em," said Gilchrist gravely. "But don't you think—sometimes—you and the other women—that they cost too much?"

"I don't get you," she looked at him quizzically.

"I only mean," he started, "isn't there something worth more than good clothes and a good time?"

He wasn't sure she understood. And neither was she. "A good home," he went on, "with love in it—and little children."

Pearl hesitated a moment, pulling nervously at a glove. Then she turned her back on the question. As had been her custom when she faced unpleasant things, she ran from it. She hurried to the window and with a cat-like approach drew the shade aside just a trifle.

"We hadn't ought to be here talkin'," she flung back over her shoulder as she peeped out the narrow slit. She was trying to establish some basis for her flight from his question.

"Why not?" he asked blandly. "I'm frightened of you," she said. "You needn't be," he reassured again.

She came back now, relieved that she had turned the conversation.

"I am," she said, still nervous. "I can't help it. I got a hunch. I ain't told you all this man said and I ain't told you how he came to say it, but he said it was gonna be soon, and I got a hunch somethin's gonna happen tonight. Please let me go out and phone. Please let me get the police." She watched him shake his head smilingly. Then she straightened. "You're crazy, Mr. Gilchrist," she exclaimed excitedly.

"You're just crazy! And I'm goin'!" She hurried toward the door. It opened before she reached it, and Clare Goodkind entered. She was smartly gowned, but somehow she gave the impression of being disheveled, of having dressed in haste.

"Clare—Mrs. Goodkind," said Gilchrist in surprise. He paused and looked at Pearl. "Mrs. Hennis's just going."

"Mrs. Hennis?" Clare looked with tired eyes and turned to the uneasy girl in front of her.

"Pearl Hennis," Gilchrist exclaimed. "You've heard your husband mention her name?"

Pearl had been searching for something to say. The mention of Jerry offered an opportunity.

"I know your husband," she said simply.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Goodby, Mister Wisp! We're leaving Dixie Land and we thought we'd come this way."

It was the Twins calling to the mysterious little water fairy of the south.

"My, my, my! It's dreadfully late for children to be out," came Will o' the Wisp's voice. And at the same time a dim light appeared over the pond. And then Will himself appeared, paddling his boat toward shore where the children were waiting.

"When we're on an errand for the Fairy Queen, it is never late," said Nancy. "We have our magic shoes, and that makes us different from other boys and girls."

"Is there any news to take to the Fairy Queen?" asked Nick. "She'll want to know about everything in Dixie Land."

"Yes, yes, I suppose she will," nodded Will o' the Wisp. "I'm glad you stopped. Indeed I was just thinking about you and hoping you'd come along. Something must have happened to Ringtail Coon. He hasn't been around these parts for a week."

Poke Nose Picked said he hadn't seen him, and Mose, Mud Turtle says he hasn't seen him, and neither has Sally Salamander, nor Sammy Sunfish, nor anybody. I haven't much use for Ringtail Coon myself as he leads me such a life, always snooping around after some of my water folk, but really I'm worried."

At My Age---62

My Youth Cream keeps this baby skin

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Thousands upon thousands of women have asked me to tell what cold cream I employ. They see me with a girl's complexion at the age of 62. It is even softer, ever rosier than 40 years ago.

Yet my life has been lived in the limelight. And I served France for five years in the rigors of the war.

A French Creation. French experts perfected this cream for me many years ago. It contains both lemon and strawberry.

Also all the best that science knows to soften, whiten, smooth and feed the skin.

Neither I nor my friends have ever found a cream to compare with this. The expert makers tell me it is the greatest cream produced. So I have arranged to have them make the identical cream for you. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. All druggists and toilet counters now supply it at 50c per jar.

They also supply my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, to which I owe my health, lustrous hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Go try my Youth Cream. Learn how it exceeds all others. Then I think you will want all the beauty helps which have done so much for me. Edna Wallace Hopper. Business address, Waukegan, Wis.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE. "The Printer's Devil." Wesley Barry's latest starring vehicle, is a romance set in a small town newspaper. Wesley has a chance to show the stuff he's made of, for as the devil is said never to rest, so he, as the printer's devil, never lets up, but starts a new prank each time the old one is done.

It is a Warner Brother's classic of the screen and will be the feature attraction at the Eltinge theatre for Friday and Saturday. Lloyd Hamilton is also on the program in his new comedy, "The Optimist," with Pathe News furnishing late news pictures.

CAPITOL. Rex Ingram, master director, has completed another picture for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

The atmosphere and reality of the story is greatly enhanced by the remarkable acting of Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro, who play the leading roles.

The brilliant, sensuous days and the calm, moonlit nights of the tropics bring dreams of love and romance to the lonely girl. That dream is translated into living reality by her lover of the South Seas.

PLANS MADE FOR BIG GAME HERE FRIDAY

State Board Issues Statement to Stop Many Rumors Around the State

MINOT-FARGO PLAY

Preparations were going forward here today for the annual classic North Dakota high school football—the state championship contest. Fargo and Minot high school eleven are to settle the question of supremacy of the local field Friday afternoon. The time of starting and the announcement of officials was yet to be made early today.

The state board of control, to end what appeared to be a period of uncertainty similar to that which prevailed before the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Shelby, issued a formal statement last night stating the game would be played in Bismarck. Paul Shafer of Wahpeton, acted on the state board in place of B. C. Tighe, principal of the Fargo high school. Supt. C. L. Love of Mandan, vice president, presided.

"The final championship football contest between Fargo and Minot is to be played in Bismarck Friday afternoon, as formerly decided by this board," the announcement said. "The definite hour for starting the game is to be announced by noon of Thursday. The postponement of announcing the time for the game is made on account of a desire of the board to co-operate with the state education association in an effort to adjust the time to the best interests of both the association program and the football contest."

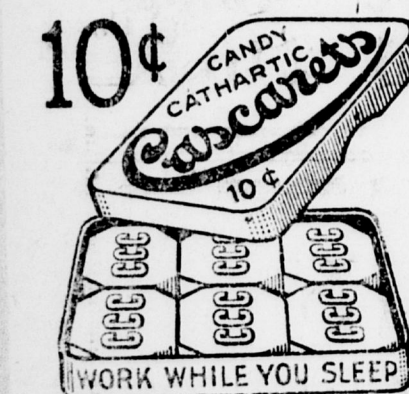

(Signed)
C. L. LOVE,
PAUL E. SHAFFER,
HARRY E. POLK.

The statement, issued at 6 o'clock last night, followed protests by President Stebbins of the North Dakota Education association that the game would interfere with the association program. The board, in considering the protest, decided to adhere to its original program. The statement followed a day of rumors, but during which Secretary Polk maintained steadily that there was no change in the arrangements, in spite of protests of Fargo and others.

Angered Yeggs Tell Of Young Farmer's Checkered Career

Because of the indignation of two yeggs upon their capture after robbing a band the discovery of Paul Hardesty, a young farmer of Killdeer vicinity, as the robber of the Bolton State bank, Bolton, Ind., was discovered.

When Hardesty passed through here Tuesday on his way to Clinton, Ind., for trial on burglary charges, he admitted that the funds which he was using in farming on a big scale were obtained by robbery, not by the wages saved as a coal miner.

Hardesty left Killdeer last fall and struck out for the coal mines of Indiana, where he was employed for some time, but shifted his life with but few knowing of his change.

Several months ago Hardesty returned to North Dakota. He stopped here on his way home and purchased an Overland Red Bird automobile and then went on to Killdeer, where he rejoined his family and began to farm on a large scale.

Last week when the Bolton State bank at Bolton, Ind., was again robbed the country side was up in arms because an old man had been killed. The country side was up in arms and the robbers were captured. Angered at the quick work of the police they seemed queer that you grabbed us so quick when you couldn't grab Hardesty and Nichols!" It is believed that $2,000 was obtained in the Hardesty-Nichols robbery of the Bolton bank.

ELECT OFFICERS

Dr. A. O. Henderson was advanced to the office of master of Mandan Lodge No. 8 A. F. & A. M., at the regular meeting and annual election of officers held last evening. Otto Bauer was elected senior warden; John Zimmerman, secretary, and E. B. Wilkinson was re-elected treasurer. Installation of officers will take place at the next regular meeting when appointive officers also will be installed. In addition to the above elected officers, E. A. Ripley, E. A. Stoevink, Otto Bauer, E. W. Miller and R. A. Countryman were named as the board of trustees.

The case of I. P. Hoppentstet, of Fort Rice, charged with statutory offenses was taken to Grant county district court on a change of venue yesterday. With this change from the Morton county district court and the continuance of the case of McKeever, jury cases of the November term of the Morton county district court were concluded.

William Langer was named as a special prosecutor in behalf of the state against Hoppentstet by appointment of Judge F. B. Lemble of Hettinger, who was appealed to by certain residents of Fort Rice interested in the prosecution who filed petitions asking special counsel be named.

A number of the civil actions on the calendar were settled out of court by the litigants and were ordered dismissed. Judgment for Wyman-Partridge company against Morris Rosen and a judgment in favor of John Spahn against Henry Meyers were returned by the jury. Mrs. Katie Krein suing for a claim to the estate of Joseph Senn, deceased, and against Phillip Senn, administrator of the estate, was given judgment by the jury for the entire estate which amounted to about $1,900 less the administration costs.

The six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Deschandt sustained a broken arm Tuesday evening while at play on the Custer school grounds.

A larger boy accidentally struck him while a game of tag was in progress.

Miss Helen Collis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Collis of Haft, and Stephen Tokach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Tokach of St. Anthony were united in marriage yesterday at St. Joseph's church by Father Clement.

Mrs. Grace Grime of Fargo, state president of the North Dakota chapter of the P. E. O. Sisterhood arrived in the city yesterday.

German Efforts To Purchase Old Warships Foiled

Hamburg, Nov. 22.—America's decision not to sell any cast-off warships to foreign buyers on the grounds that such action would minimize war, has attracted much attention in Europe. Several German firms made inquiries in Washington concerning battleships which were to be scrapped, as the vessels were desired by them for the iron and steel they contained.

About the time the policy of the United States government was announced, it was learned here that several battleships upon which construction began during the Carl's regime, but which never were completed, had been sold by the Soviet government to a British wrecking concern to be used as scrap iron and melted down. Word to this effect came from Petrograd to German shipping companies who were interested in the deal, but whom, it appears, were out-bid by the British.

Included in this Russian sale were 15 war ships and 5,000 locomotives, some of which had been the pride of the Russian state railways in the days when the trans-Siberian express was in its prime.

PLANS MADE FOR BIG GAME HERE FRIDAY

State Board Issues Statement to Stop Many Rumors Around the State

MINOT-FARGO PLAY

Preparations were going forward today for the annual football game between the state championship team, Fargo, and Minot high school eleven. The game is to be played Friday afternoon. The time of starting and the announcement of officials was yet to be made early today.

The state board of control, to end what appeared to be a period of uncertainty similar to that which prevailed before the Hempsy-Gibbons fight in Shelby, issued a formal statement last night stating the game would be played in Bismarck. Paul Shafer of Wahpeton, acted on the state board in place of B. C. Tighe, principal of the Fargo high school. Supt. C. L. Love of Mandan, vice president, presided.

"The final championship football contest between Fargo and Minot is to be played in Bismarck Friday afternoon, as formerly decided by this board," the announcement said. "The definite hour for starting the game is to be announced by noon of Thursday. The postponement of announcing the time for the game is made on account of a desire of the board to co-operate with the state education association in an effort to adjust the time to the best interests of both the association program and the football contest."

(Signed)
C. L. LOVE,
PAUL E. SHAFFER,
HARRY E. POLK.

The statement, issued at 6 o'clock last night, followed protests by President Shabins of the North Dakota Education association that the game would interfere with the association program. The board, in considering the protest, decided to adhere to its original program. The statement followed a day of rumors, but during which Secretary Polk maintained steadily that there was no change in the arrangements, in spite of protests of Fargo and others.

AID IS GIVEN FOR PURCHASE OF PLAYGROUND

Plan Is Explained at Meeting of Parent-Teachers' Association Body Here

METHODS DISCUSSED

One of the most interesting features of the meeting of the department of the parent-teachers association in connection with the high school was the plan whereby a town or city under 15,000 population might obtain aid from a New York Foundation in purchasing the ground to be used for play ground.

Albert H. Yoder of Grand Forks, secretary of the P. T. A. who had received a letter from the Harmon Foundation of New York City, told of the plan. He said that the foundation offered to contribute up to 25 per cent of the purchase price of the ground but in no case was the contribution to exceed $1,000, provided the city met certain requirements.

The speaker said that this was the first announcement that had been made of the offer and that he hoped that representatives from the various towns would carry the news back home and perhaps make use of it in obtaining a playground.

As a second offer the Foundation people stated in their letter to Mr. Yoder that if a town were not anxious to purchase ground that the Foundation would buy not less than two acres of land at a cost of $2,000 or less, and lease it to the Board of Education, P. T. A. or the town without cost for a period of five years with option to buy either during that time or at the expiration of the lease at cost plus interest at 4 per cent per annum.

The way in which needy children attending the grade schools of Grand Forks were being helped and delinquency prevented was related by Miss Katherine Whiteley of Grand Forks chairman of the Child Welfare committee. She said that instead of allowing the Associated Charities to assist in caring for the needs of the school children this committee was quietly assisting those who needed help without allowing any publicity on the matter to get abroad.

Working with the P. T. A. and as a part of it were committees on diet, sewing, delinquency, emergency, sickness, food, and finance. The members of these various committees could be called in by the teachers when a child in their room was in need of some special kind of attention and they immediately provided for all emergencies.

This work was being carried on particularly to aid the boys and girls in homes where either the father or the mother were a widower or widow and the children were likely to be neglected. The new clothing furnished for the children and this was one of the big pieces of work being done by the women was obtained and fitted to the children without allowing anyone except the child, the head women of the sewing committee, and the teacher knowing about it.

In this way much delinquency was being prevented in the schools of the city, it was said by the speaker, who elaborated upon the methods used. She said that the various city organizations as the Masonic lodge and clubs and individuals were constantly contributing money for this work without any solicitation.

A special appeal was made that the lecture to be given by Dr. W. J. French Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the high school on the subject of "Fargo Child Health Demonstration" be attended by the teachers. The women of Bismarck were also invited to hear this talk as the work about which Dr. French will talk is being done in only three cities in the United States, Fargo being one of them.

Various business was taken up at the meeting and reports heard. Miss Helen Davies of Grand Forks, president, presided at the session.

FORD TO ADD NEW CAR STYLE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 22.—The Ford Motor Company today announced an addition to its line of cars—the Tudor Sedan which brings to the public an entirely new style of Ford enclosed body.

It is a distinctive type designed to carry five passengers in complete comfort. The roof line is low and straight which with the larger radiator, now standard on all Ford cars, gave Ford designers an opportunity of effecting most graceful lines and at the same time a most sturdy construction.

The two doors are unusually wide, 28 3/4 inches to be exact, and are set at the front of the car, hung in exceptionally heavy frames and swing open forward on either side in line with the driver's seat.

Side windows running back from the doors are oblong in shape and thirty-two inches in length, affording unusual vision to the occupants, while a large rear window adds to the visibility. All window glasses are lowered flush with the framing, affording clear vision and the maximum in ventilation.

Interior arrangement of the Tudor Sedan meets all comfort requirements both for driver and passengers. The driver's seat is of the "bucket" design, with easy cushion and back, assuring restful posture. There is a noticeable roominess in front with plenty of foot room.

Because of the location of the door, the driver has convenient access to his seat without folding up the extra seat along side. The gasoline tank is located under the driver's seat.

ers seat making it unnecessary for him to disturb any other passengers when filling the tank.

Interior fittings are attractive. The upholstery is in special Ford fabric of dark brown with floor rug to match. Both the doors and side windows have been equipped with revolving type window regulators of the same design as those used in cars of much higher price.

The Tudor Sedan, which is now in production, is priced at $500 at Detroit.
